Profile

As a scholar, my interdisciplinary research interests span three key sub fields.

1. Gender, politics and social movements in the Arab Spring and beyond, country focus: Lebanon (see latest book: "Lebanese Women at the Crossroads: Caught Between Sect and Nation", Rowman and Littlefield).
2. The cultural, political and economic dimensions of transnational mobility between the Middle East and Australia. My research specialisation is the lived experience of the Lebanese Diaspora (see book: My Mother's Table: At Home in the Maronite Diaspora", 2011).
3. International business dynamics. Focus: intercultural management, entrepreneurship and intercultural competency in organisations.
